As we grow into our youthful selves, we crave more real-time adventures, with supportive adults, in The Nature. Youth in these programs develop self-preservation, confidence and inter-communication skills through activities such as: archery, wilderness survival, widdling, fire making, rock rappelling, caving, kayaking, and questing in the Central Vancouver Island region. Wild-crafting and harvesting is essential in this program, this culinary art that is explored in a campsite setting. We also explore in the Performing Arts using dramatic storytelling, videography, editing and production. When we are on great adventures, there are stories to be shared, these stories are our legacy. Youth who register for Drawn by Nature challenge themselves, build strong relationships and develop employability skills for life.
